

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates. The cable ownership cap is a crucial element of our democratic media, and it should not be weakened.

AT&T Broadband bought up our cable service less than a year ago and they just notified us of a price hike. When will the FCC wake up and stop this monopoly madness. The very idea of making it even easier for the giant cable companies to monopolize even more is appalling. It is time that the FCC looks out for the consumers. And it is time that the FCC looks out for the protection of our democracy. Giant corporations that own news media are fashioning the news already in such a way that they promote what is best for big business. We are at a news crisis in this country and the FCC is mostly to blame.
